WGS-10
Launched on a
United Launch Alliance
Delta IV Medium
for the US Department of Defense

2019-03-15, 6:56 pmEDT

The Wideband Global Satellite 10 is launching on a Delta IV Medium rocket manufactured by United Launch Alliance, a merger of Boeing and Lockheed Martin.
WGS provides flexible, high-capacity communications for the Nation's warfighters through procurement and operation of the satellite constellation and the associated control systems. WGS provides worldwide flexible, high data rate and long haul communications for marines, soldiers, sailors, airmen, the White House Communication Agency, the US State Department, international partners, and other special users.
The constellation of WGS satellites increases the communications capabilities of the militaries of the United States, Canada, and Australia by providing additional bandwidth and communications capabilities for tactical command and control, communications, and computers; intelligence, surveillance, and reconaissance (C4ISR); battle management; and combat support information.
WGS also augments the current Ka-band Global Broadcast Ser-
