Crew-3

Launching on a Falcon 9 Rocket for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration

2021-10-31 02:21 amEDT

The Crew-3 mission is the third regularly scheduled launch of an ISS (International Space Station) Expedition crew from American soil since the end of the Space Shuttle Era in 2011. The crew has named their spacecraft "Endurance" as a tribute to the human spirit and a historic sailing vessel used by Antarctic explorer Ernest Shackleton.

The Mission Patch depicts the SpaceX Crew Dragon capsule that will carry the crew to and from orbit, a numeral three as the mission number in the form of the Rocket's exhaust flame, and the names of the astronauts travelling on the mission.

Members of ISS Expedition 67 travelling on this flight are NASA Astronauts Raja Chari, Thomas Marshburn, Kayla Barron, and European Space Agency Astronaut Matthias Maurer.

The Crew-3 mission will launch on a Falcon 9 rocket from Launch Complex 39A at the Kennedy Space Center. It will launch when the orbital path of the ISS comes directly over the launch pad. The first stage is expected to land on a barge in the Atlantic Ocean off North Carolina.
